FRD PROMISES ACTUAL INVASIONS

President Gives Assurance of Great Drives Against Japan Itself

[By. D. Harold Oliver]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP) — President Roosevelt held out to an embattled world today the promise of "actual invasions" of Europe following the battle of Tunisia, and of great and decisive land drives—against the Japanese in China and over Japan itself.

He also gave assurance that the United Nations were in this war until they march in triumph through the streets of Berlin, Rome and Tokio, and were determined that the Nazi, Fascist or Japanese warlord form of government shall "never again" dominate a nation guaranteed post-war self-determination.

The Chief Executive made these declarations Friday night in a radio address from the Twentieth Century annual dinner of the White House correnspondents' Association. It was his first war review since his Casablanca "unconditional surrender" conference with Prime Minister Churchill.

He spoke of world-wide offensives stemming from that conference and of the developing battle of Tunisia with its expected "heavy" losses on the Allied side in the attempt to push the enemy into the sea and open the way for what he called "invasions"—he used the plural twice—of the European continent.

He described the whole world today as "one neighborhood" and said unless the peace that follows this war recognizes this and does justice to the human race, the germs of another world war will remain as a constant threat to mankind."

On the home front, the President said that on his African journey he had told American soldiers and sailors, who had expressed concern over reports of labor troubles and rationing complaints at home, that most of these reports were "just gross exaggerations" and that the people as a whole were only too willing to give up shoes and sugar and coffee and automobile riding—and privileges and profits— for the sake of the common cause.

Mr. Roosevelt said fighting men abroad also had heard reports,

SCHOOL HEADS TO MEET ON MILK QUESTION

To Discuss Plan For Providing Half Pint Daily to Pupils; Government to Pay Part

Following a conference with Mayor Herbert E. Macauley Friday afternoon, Dr. Michael F. Walsh, acting superintendent of schools, today planned to discuss with the school principals at a meeting Monday the question of providing milk to pupils at the cost of a penny a half-pinta day the remainder of the cost to be borne by the federal government.

The mayor and acting superintendent discussed the plan as submitted by a representative of the federal government who was here some time ago, and agreed that while there are favorable features there are a great many angles to be considered. Dr. Walsh planned to discuss these with the principals and get their reactions and suggestions.

Dr. Walsh suggested today that it might be advisible to find how many pupils were interested in such a plan. He pointed out, also that there were problems that would have to be worked out, such as the time for taking the milk, the bookkeeping involved in keeping track of the funds, and other factors. Under the plan, a child could have a half-pint of milk a day for five cents a school week.

FURTHER CUT SEEN IN PORK RATION

Lend-Lease Buyers Meet Difficulty; Shoe-Heel Ceiling Set

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—The government expects to take steps within a few days to require packers and processors to reserve greater portions of their output of pork and lard for government war needs, officials said Friday.

A food official said that military procurement agencies and Lend-Lease buyers were experiencing great difficulty in getting sufficient meat and lard for their current and reserve requirements.

Stating that the meat supply situation had deteriorated since the government had decided to ration civilians, the official said the amount consumers will receive may be less than two pounds a week, on a per capita basis. Originally, officials had hoped to make the equivalent of about 2½ pounds available.

Government Friday put a ceiling on the height of heels for women's shoes, ruled out leather-covered platform effects, and restricted shoe colors to four—black, white, army russet and town brown.

In the same order the War Production Board prohibited entirely the manufacture of men's patent leather shoes, women's formal evening slippers and metal-spiked golf shoes for either sex.

Leather frills, bows and ornamental tongues also were banned, in a general overhauling of shoe restrictions to conserve leather.

PRESIDENT CONFERS

Admiral William D. Leahy, his chief of staff, General George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, and Admiral Ernest J. King, fleet commander-in-chief, called even as telegrams by the score poured in congratulating the President for his assurance Friday night that "great and decisive actions" are in store against the enemy.

REPUBLICANS HEAR CALL FOR COALITION

Landon, Martin, Bricker Assail "Expanding Arrogant Bureaucracy"

(By The Associated Press)

A call for a coalition of Republicans and "real Democrats," coupled with an attack on "arrogant bureaucracy" and criticism of the administration's conduct of the war, highlighted the traditional Lincoln Day gatherings of Republicans Friday night.

Alf M. Landon, the party's 1936 Presidential candidate; Governor John W. Bricker of Ohio, mentioned as a Republican Presidential possibility for 1944, and Representative Joseph Martin of Massachusetts, minority leader of the House and former national Republican chairman, joined in assailing what Martin described as "expanding, arrogant bureaucracy."

Landon, speaking in Omaha, proposed the Democrat-Republican coalition as a guarantee that Vice President Wallace "and his fellow travelers will not lead us down the same disastrous primrose path that Hitler had led his people."

Landon declared "practical progressives and the real liberals" among the Democrats "are awake to the fact that by use of Trojan horse methods a small but dominant group of Nazi New Dealers ... have seized control of their party."

The tangle of domestic policies and managing bureaucracy that prevented our return to prosperity under the Roosevelt administration is preventing an efficient prosecution of the war," said Landon, adding:

"We are being compelled to fight on two fronts—one a global ic war.

Bricker, speaking in Nashville, Tenn., charged that "a lot of these bureaucrats.... are especially contemptuous of elected representatives of the people" and we "even find some in high places who are unpatriotic enough to use the war as a means of imposing their peculiar philosphy of un-American government upon our people."

"We are involved in such a mixture of social reforms and regimentation for political power in the conduct of war that the party in power cannot unscramble it," Bricker said, adding that the unscrambling will have to be done by Republicans.

Martin, in Pittsburgh, declared the people 'are dangerously close to losing their system of free government when a bureaucrat can put into effect, on his own initiative, regulations that Congress has turned down."

The Republican party, Martin said, intends "to restore control of the government to the people."

"If these 'power-made' bureaucrats can defy Congress and get away with it," Martin said, "we have traveled a long way on the road to dictatorship. We don't want that kind of a government—not even a benevolent dictatorship, here in America."

Referring to freedom of the press, Martin declared the people "are deeply and properly suspicious of the motives of the bureaucrats in any action, such as the suit instituted against the Associated Press."

"The people fear—and they have a good reason to fear—that if the bureaucrats win it, the triumph might well be a deadly blow to all our freedom," Martin said.

OUSTER PETITION FILED

BOSTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—Joseph S. Raposa and nine other Fall River voters filed in superior court today a petition to declare void the election of Mayor Alexander C. Murray of that city and to oust him from office.

The case is returnable February 27.

Soviet columns, striking along the lower arrow from (1), raced 90 miles south toward the Sea of Azov and left only a 70-mile-wide escape corridor for upwards of 500,000 Axis soldiers. Nearly 200,000 additional German troops and their satellites were reported fighting for their lives in the western Caucasus, pinned against a narrow coastal strip below Rostov by drives from (2).

VALENTINE DAY MAIL SHATTERS RECORDS

Post Office Reports Increase of 125 Per Cent

Service Men, War Workers, Ban on Wire Messages Seen as Contributing Factors

All previous Valentine Day records at the local post office were broken this year and figures show an increase over the same period last year of more than 100 per cent in Valentines received Friday and Saturday, with those dispatched reaching 120 per cent higher than last year. Parcel post received was 130 per cent greater and the amount dispatched was more than 150 per cent above last year's figures. The average was 125 per cent more than last year, post office officials said.

The greatest single factor in this unprecedented rush of Valentine Day business is due to the thousands of service men who have sent cards out by the score. An unexpected amount of business in gift packages was also noted this year, post office officials said.

An additional number of war workers who came into the area last year helped to bring this year's total business up to its highest point. Added to this was the number who turned to the mails this year when a government ruling banned the sending of greetings by telegraph for the duration.

The government ban on messages while cutting into the receipts of the telegraph companies here, has proved a windfall for the local post office although it made necessary the working of extra hours by clerks and carriers.

Business has continued in heavy vloume at the post office since the Christmas holidays and records for the month of January show a 130 per cent increase over the same month last year. All indications point to a continuation of this record for February, post office officials feel.

BUDGET BODY TO MEET FIRST OF NEXT WEEK

Completion of Estimates For Fiscal Year to Be Started

City Treasurer Works Out System Calling For Itemized Amounts Sought

Compilation of the city budget for the fiscal year begining April 1 will be started the first of the coming week when the Budget Commission will have a meeting. Assignment of the date of the meeting is being held up pending the return to the city of Councilman John Nicholas Brown, a member of the commission.

At the opening meeting the payrolls of the various departments and other data prepared by department heads on the sheets made up by City Treasurer George A. Bisson will be submitted for consideration. The heads of certain departments will be at the meeting, it was reported today.

The council chairman, Cornelius C. Moore, said he planned later to prepare statements of the bonded indebtedness of the city and facts regarding the history and status of various funds of the city so the people may be informed about them.

The city treasurer has worked out a system of tabulation sheets for heads of all the departments to submit to the comission. On these department head will list each employe's name, his position, present salary, weekly and annually, for 1942-43, and salary for 1943-44, and/ indicating whether there is an increase or decrease.

Similarly, in making out the budget, in major amounts, each item must be specified, rather than have items grouped under a general heading. In this way, the city treasurer said, the budget committee could get a complete picture

TOKIO CLAIMS ALLIED SINKINGS

MacArthur Says Foe Continues Retreat After New Guinea Defeat

[By The Associated Press]

Japan today admitted the loss of seven Japanese warships sunk and six damaged the last half year of battle in the Solomons-New Guinea theatre.

The Japanese said these were losses "which have not yet been previously announced."

A Tokio broadcast quoted Japanese Imperial headquarters as acknowledging that three Japanese destroyers, three submarines and a patrol ship were sunk, while a cruiser, four submarines and a patrol ship were damaged in the South Seas from August 7, 1942, to February 7.

The communique said four Allied submarines, three torpedo boats and a patrol ship were sunk in the same period, and three destroyers, four submarines and a patrol ship were listed as "heavily damaged."

Meanwhile, China had President Roosevelt's promise that the Allies, instead of attempting island-by-island drives back through the South Seas, would smash directly at Japan's invasion armies in China and at Japan herself.

On the Far Pacific fighting fronts, Allied troops increased their pressure against the Japanese in northern New Guinea and RAF warplanes flying from India carried out destructive attacks on Japanese-conquered Burma.

General Douglas MacArthur's headquarters reported that the main Japanese forces which suffered a sharp defeat at Wau, 35 miles below the big enemy base at Salamaua; were continuing to retreat northward after losing nearly 1,000 killed.

In Burma, RAF day and night raiders delivered widespread assaults on Japanese railway tracks, river steamers, factory buildings and other targets, while Japanese planes countered with ineffective attacks on British troops near Rathedaung, 25 miles north of the enemy base at Akyab.

LEADERS ON UP TREND

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (AP)—Swapping of low-priced utilities in large blocks enlivened today's post-holiday stock market and, while it was more of a churning session than otherwise, leaders generally displayed modest upward trends.

"Penny" issues were all over the ticker tape at the start. There was a let-down in activity in the final hour, however, for the short stretch of around 600,000 shares was one of the best in the past year.

MOSCOW, Feb. 13 (AP)—Soviet Russia's armies drew their net tighter today about Axis troops pocketed in the extreme western Caucasus north of Novorossisk and aimed a drive southward from recaptured Krasnoarmeisk that would envelop a huge German army at Rostov and in the southern Donets basin.

A series of thrusts had brought under the Red flag Krasnoarmeisk and Voroshilovsk, in the Donets basin; Krivyanskaya and Shakhty, northeast of Rostov; and Krasnodar, Timoshevsk, Novotitarovsk and Dinskaya, in the western Caucasus, Russian communities reported.

(A Berlin broadcast recorded by the Associated Press stated that the Germans had evacuated Krasnodar.)

Other towns and villages were reclaimed from the Germans in the Soviet drives, but these were the strategically important victories.

The Russian mid-day communique said that the Red army's drive toward Rostov had resulted in the capture of more towns northeast of Novocherkassk, which is 25 miles northeast of Rostov.

In other violent night fighting, the Russians said, their troops pushed back a wave of counter-attacks in the Kramatorsk area, and about 800 Germans were reported slain in two days of fighting in the Chuguyev sector, 22 miles southeast of Kharkov.

Fighting in a sector on the northern Donets river claimed 400 German dead after the foe was dislodged from fortifications and driven to the west, the war bulletin reported, while north of Kursk severe losses were said to have been dealt the enemy attempting to counter-attack.

At Krasnodarmeisk, the southward driving army lay only 25 miles north of Stalino, a major industrial city, and only 70 miles from the north shore of the Sea of Azov, leaving only that narrow corridor of retreat for the Germans at Rostov and in the Donets basin.

The capture of Krasnodarmeisk also cut the main Dnieperopetrovsk-Stalino railway.

At Voroshilovsk, the Russians placed another pincer around Voroshilovgrad, 25 miles to the northeast.

RAF OVER WESTERN GERMANY

LONDON, Feb. 13 (AP)—The RAF struck again at Hitler's arsenal area in western Germany over night and sent powerful formations streaking across the Channel before breakfast today in one of the earliest daylight starts in recent weeks.

The scope of the night assault was not disclosed immediately in London, but the German radio, acknowledging damage in one center, said the raid was of the small, "nuisance" variety.

KNOX RECALLS LINCOLN CRITICS

(By the Associated Press)

Secetary of the Navy Knox, emphasizing he was a Republican, spoke Friday in Springfield, Ill., scene of Lincoln's tomb. Recalling that Lincoln had been subjected to criticism, Knox said:

"We see history repeating itself. Our President, our leaders have men subjected to all the same familiar charges of 80 years ago. We harve seen again in these hours of another supreme struggle the same temptations of partisan advantage obscrut our larger purposes."

FRENCH PATROL TAKES PRISONERS

8th Army Engages Armored Cars; Artillery in Action Along Coast

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Feb. 13 (AP)—A strong German attack from heights on the range east of Ousseltia, 75 miles south of Tunis, has been beaten back by entrenched British troops, an Allied spokesman announced today.

French Algerian Spahis on patrol captured 53 Italian prisoners in the hills north and south of the road between Pont du Fahs and Robaa, he said.

(The German high command reported that the front was again quiet in Tunisia because of bad weather. The broadcast communique was recorded in London by Reuters.)

"Successful patroling was carried out over the whole front and many prisoners were taken," an Allied communique said.

(Allied planes bombed and machine-gunned towns and passanger trains on the island of Sicily ad Calabria province, on the Italian mainland, the Italian high command reported. The broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, said three were killed and 12 injured in an attack on a passenger train. Axis bombers were declared to have attacked Allied ships at anchor at Bougie and Bono "with good results." Only patrol activity was reported from Tunisia.)

CAIRO, Feb. 13 (AP)—Patrols of the British 8th Army, operating in southern Tunisia engaged enemy armored cars in battle Friday in the central sector, while along the coast artillery fire was exchanged by the opposing armies, a British communique said today.

The northern wing of General Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's British army was reported earlier this week to be operating east of Ben Gardane, some 20 miles inside the Tunisian frontier.

WOMAN CATCHES UP WITH QUERIES

Chief Informationist of OWI Answers Over 6,000 Questions Weekly

[Written For The Associated Press By Adelaide Kerr]

When Doris Kavanagh was a girl in school she hated to answer questions. Always sat in the back row and never spoke till she had to.

But life caught up with Kavanagh.

Now she is responsible for answering more than 6,000 questions a week. Out loud.

Miss Kavanagh is chief informational representative of the bureau of public inquiry of the office of war information in New York. She heads an office staff of 13.

All day long, six days a week, the public inquiry telephones ring with questions concerning the government, army, navy, or anything else related to the federal set-up. When did the wage and hour law go into effect?...Can second lieutenants get married before they get their assignments?....What are the provisions of the land lease act?....What do the new proposals on social security mean?...If a corduroy coat has wool sleeves, how should it be labelled?....Who succeeds the Vice President in case of death?....Can you tell me how to locate a sailor named Jack?

The office frowns on the zany questions, which impede its serious work. Eight of the staff concentrate on answering bonafide queries. But a lot of them have to be passed on to Miss Kavanagh. She says she talks 75 per cent of her working time. That, at the rate of 150 words a minute, mounts to 54,000 words a day—15,200,000 a year.

It's no wonder the chief informational representative's favorite recreation is "just to sit and relax." She won't go near the telephone at home. And the men she likes best are the strong silent type.

"But I really love this job," she said, with a twinkle in her Irish eyes. "The variety of it keeps you constantly on your toes and abreast of what is going on."

Though Miss Kavanagh has to talk too much to suit her own taste, nobody else seems to mind. She has a soft throaty voice.

Miss Kavanagh is no trial to the eyes either. Creamy skin. Sunny hair. Smiling eyes. Slim mannequin figure in smart tailord suits.

Recently she sat at the big desk in her roomy office, and talked to me about the years that have brought her to her present job. She was born in the Chelsea section of New York, attended Mount St. Vincent School in Riverdale, N. Y., and was graduated from Trinity College, in Washington, in 1935. A year later she went to work as a file clerk in the United States Information Service, then a division of the National Emergency Council.

In those days the staff numbered two. As it increased Doris Kavanagh moved up through the information clerk ranks. And when her senior left, last summer, she was made chief of the office, now a division of the Office of War Information.

"It certainly gave me a thrill," she said. "I was at home, ill with a cold, when I heard about it—and my temperature went up two points."

She turned from me, picked up the ringing telephone, as a voice came over the wire with one of the typical baffling queries that she gets day after day:

"Can you tell me where my local rationing board is?"

"Where are you, madame?"

"I'm at home."

MOTORIST INJURED AS CAR HITS FIRE BOX

Driver Believed to Have Suffered Stroke While Driving On Spring Street

Morris B. Rosen, 56, of 10 Mary street, was released from the Newport Hospital today after being under treatment there for what may have been a shock that caused him to crash into fire box 321 at the corner of Spring and Prospect Hill streets about 5 o'clock Friday afternoon. Police today were conducting an investigation.

According to police, Mr. Rosen got out of his car, staggered a little, got into the car and drove up Prospect Hill street. Later, Patrolmen Frank H. Walsh and Harry M. Flowers found him on Levin street in a dazed condition, blood streaming from a cut under his left eye.

Taken to the hospital by the policemen, Rosen had six stitches taken in the cut. He was then taken to the police station where he collapsed. Dr. John L. Healy, city physician, who was called, ordered him back to the hospital. Dr. Healy thought he may have suffered a stroke. The man remained unconscious until late in the night.

It was reported that about 10 years ago Mr. Rosen suffered a fractured skull when hit by a crane at the Naval Torpedo Station. He is a World War veteran.

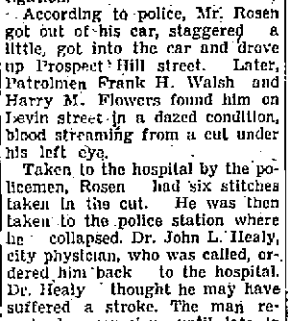

The fire box was replaced Friday night by a fire department crew under Chief Electrician Bradford Shepley. The entire system in the southern part of the city was put out of commission.

MORE DELINQUENT REGISTRANTS CLEARED

Local Board Expects to Have Enough Single Men For March Quota

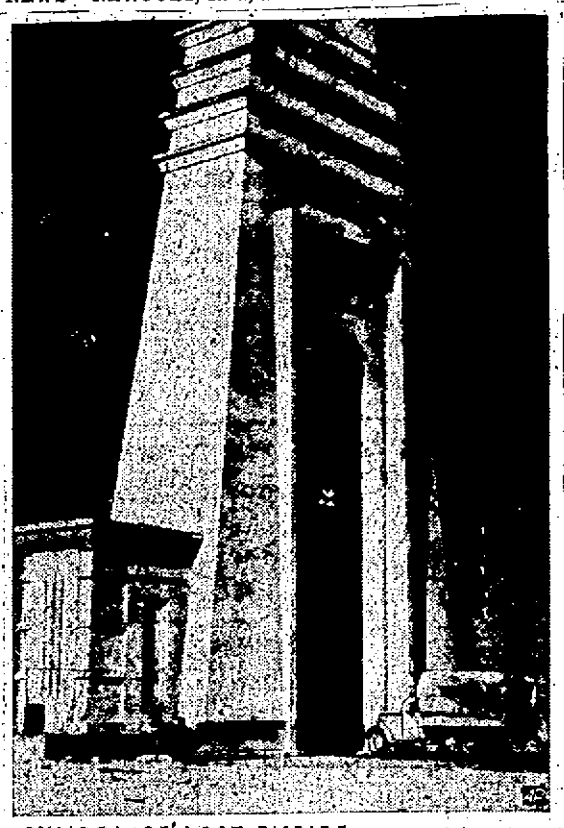

A score of additional registrants under Selective Service, who had been reported to the district attorney as delinquent, have cleared themselves with their local boards, according to Brigadier General Herbert R. Dean, state director of Selective Service. Many were found to be men who, through negligence or indifference, failed to respond to orders from their local boards. Others who had been careless in notifying Selective Service of change of address and could not be found by their boards.

Local Draft Board No. 1, of whom Thomas A. Slavens is chairman, feels that there are sufficient single men to take care of the March call of 112 men without going into the list of married men without children.

J. L. WEBB ARRESTED AFTER FLEEING HOSPITAL

Walked Out in Pajamas After Being Held in Reno for Observation By Army

Private Jacob L. Webb, who walked away from Reno, Nev., air base and army court martial charges Friday night clad in pajamas, was arrested early today in a downtown hotel in that city, the Associated Press reported.

The police officers said Webb told them he walked the nine miles from the air base to downtown Reno, and took a cab from a Reno street corner, telling the driver he had had an argument with his father and had decided to go to a hotel for the night—"that's why I'm dressed this way."

The police said Webb still wore only the bathrobe and accessories when he walked into a downtown hotel and obtained a room.

Officers said he would be turned over to the army.

Police broadcast a statewide pick-up order Friday night at the request of army officials. The local law enforcement men said they understood young Webb merely opened a window and walked out of the hospital where he had been taken for observation, shortly after the army disclosed court-martial on charges of impersonating an army officer.

FDR PROMISES ACTUAL INVASIONS

which he said were "exaggerated," that farm groups were attempting to profiteer on food and that "there are serious partisan quarrels over the petty things of life here in Washington."

He said he told them, however, there were a few chiselers, a few politicians, and a few publicists—fortunately a very few—who had placed personal ambition or greed above the nation's interest.

Describing the struggle for Tunisia as one of the "major battle of teh war," he said that while the Axis had maintained its supply lines at great cost, Hitler had been willing to pay that cost for he "knows the consequences of Allies' victory in Tunisia."

"Those consequences," he said, are actual invasions of the continent of Europe. We do not disguise our intention to make these invasions. The pressure on Germany and Italy will be constant and unrelenting. The amazing Russian armies in the east have been delivering overpowering blows; we must do likewise in the west.

"The enemy must be hit and hit hard from so many directions that he never knows which is his bow and which is his stern."

As for the Pacific zone, the President spoke of the recently concluded battle in the Solomons, and declared:

"We do not expect to spend the time it would take to bring Japan to final defeat merely by inching our way forward from island to island across the vast expanse of the Pacific." He continued:

"Great and decisive actions against the Japanese will be taken to drive the invader from the soil of China. Important actions will be taken in the skies over China—and over Japan itself.

"The discussions at Casablanca have been continued in Chunking with the generalissimo by General Arnold and have resulted in definate plans for offensive operations.

"There are many roads which lead right to Tokio. We shall neglect none of them."

The President re-emphasized the Atlantic charter's pledge of self-determination for all nations after the war and declared Frenchmen were uniting to "strike a blow for liberation."

"French soverenty rests with the people of France," he asserted in a renewal of Allied promises not to interfere in French politics. Then he said emphatically:

"No nation in all the world that is free to make a choice is going to set itself up under the Fascist form of govrenment, or the Nazi form of government or the Japanese war-lord form of government."

The President added that the right of self-determination included in the Atlantic charter "does not carry with it the right of any government to commit wholesale murder or the right to make slaves of its own people or of any other peoples in the world."

"And the world can rest assured", he went on, "that this total war—this sacrifice of lives all over the globe—is not being carried on for the purpose or even with the remotest idea of keeping the Quislings of Lavals in power anywhere on this earth."

The President told again some of the Casablanca developments already reported by Churchill. He said the decisions reached there were not confined to any one war theatre, continent or sea.

"Before this year is out", he promised, "it will be made known to the world—in actions rather than in words—that the Casablanca conference produced plenty of news, and it will be bad news for the Germans and Italians—and the Japanese.

He said the Axis, in an attempt to ward off "inevitable disaster", were trying all their old tricks of propaganda to create the idea that if the Allies win, Russia, England, China and the United States "are going to get into a cat-and-dog fight."

"This is their final effort to turn one natoin against another, in the vain hope that they may settle with one or two at a time—that any of us may be so gullible and so forgetful as to be duped into making 'deals' at the expense of our Allies."

To these "panicky attempts to escape the consequences of their crimes," the President said, the United Nations repeat that the only terms on which they will deal with the enemy was proclaimed at Casablanca — "unconditional surrender."

"In our uncompromising policy," he added, "we mean no harm to the common people of the Axis nations. But we do mean to impose punishment and retribution in full upon their guilty, barbaric leaders."

He said the enemy could be quite sure that if Japan should be the first of the Axis partners to fall, the United Nations would concentrate all on the job of crushing Germany, and that if Germany were conquered first Britain, China and the United States would make an "out-and-out final attack" on Japan.

The President, turning again to post-war problems, said one main objective was to assure jobs for the returning soldiers and sailors. He was certain, he said, that private enterprise would be able to provide the vast majority with jobs and in those cases where this could not be accomplished Congress would pass legislation "which will make good the assurance of jobs."

of what each department asked for, and could more readily make necessary adjustments.

The city treasurer has established a system whereby the deputy in going to the bank to get the payroll cash takes a scout car instead of going by himself as was the custom. PLANE FOUND IN BAY

The Eastern Defense Command reported today that an army fighter plane missing since Thursday was found Friday night in Narragansett bay, but that the body of the pilot had not been located.

The plane, which was discovered after an all day search by army planes, navy boats, Civilian Air Patrol planes and state police, was on a flight from Providence to Groton, Conn., the Associated Press said.

The plane was in 58 feet of water in the south end of the bay.

U. S. TO GET SPOT NEWS

Editors Pledge Coverage in Spite of Scarce Materials and Men

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP) —No matter what may be cut out of the national newspaper diet because of wartime shortages, spot news will be served to the American reading public as long as the presses keep rolling.

That was the pledge today of members of the American Society of Newspaper Editors as they went into conferences with home front leaders to find out just how deeply the newsprint, zinc and manpower shortages will slash into their operation.

After they discussed handling war news with federal war information and censorship officials, and conferred with the President and Secretary of State, the 200 editors spent the day with military leaders and the heads of various civilian war agencies.

Attention was focused on this morning's meetings with General George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the United States fleet and other military men, but the editors at least were equally interested in the afternoon speakers. They were Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard; Donald M. Nelson, war production chairman; Paul V. McNutt, war manpower chief; Prentiss M. Brown, head of the Office of Price Administration; and Director James M. Landis of the Office of Civilian Defense.

LOCAL OIL DEALERS FAIL TO GET SHIPMENT

Supplies on Hand Seen Sufficient Until Monday

Gasoline May Be Cut As Result of Ban on Tank Car Deliveries to This Area

Although failure of expected shipments of fuel oil and kerosene to arrive in Providence may have the effect of preventing oil men here from storing reserves of the latter fuel as quickly as they thought would be possible, there are sufficinet amounts of both fuels to take care of orders between now and Monday when new deliveries are expected, it was indicated today.

None of the oil distributors was certain what caused the hold-up in deliveries in Providence, although one made the suggestion that the government may have found it necessary to divert fuel cars to some other area temporarily.

Senator William B. Sweeney contended Friday that the fuel shortage in Rhode Island is acute because of inadequate transportation facilities compared with Massachusetts and Connecticut. The senator has a bill pending urging that an effort be made to allow other railroads than the New Haven to come into the state.

No. 2, oil stocks fell 25 per cent for the week and gasoline reserves took a drop of 34 per cent as a result of the latest ban on tank car shipments. Kerosene was down only 3.4 per cent.

Gasoline, which has been coming here in fairly large amounts, may also be cut down as a result of the condition holding up oil and kerosene deliveries. Distributors here are not much concerned about this yet, they implied today.

Christopher Del Sesto said that fuel savings many times greater than those effected by the recent 150 conversions could be accomplished if the other 350 non-residence oil consumers would hurry their conversions. He said OPA would investigate "more carefully" the claims that conversions are underway.

GREEK BOND DRIVE

Officers and members of Maud Howe Elliott Chapter, Order of Ahepa, have been making creditable progress in their campaign to buy $100,000 in government bonds. Their drive will not end until Washington's Birthday, a fitting time for it to close. Leaders expect by then the quota set will have been reached and, perhaps, oversubscribed.

Already more than half the amount has been raised. Contributions are coming in steadily, with still more than a week to go before the windup of this concerted effort of members of the Greek community. It is an effort to make their money contribution to defeat the Axis and to restore democracy to its rightful place among the peoples of the world.

It is fitting that the Greeks should take so prominent a part in this. Greece gave to us many of our ideas and ideals of democracy. That was in addition to her stores of literary and artistic output without which modern culture could hardly be what it is. Homer alone was a priceless contribution of the Hellenes to the world of poetry, and writers from time almost immemorial have dipped into Grecian mythology for inspiration for some of their greatest works.

In this present war, Greece cannot be forgotten for the battle she put up against the Nazi hordes that invaded her. After she had repulsed the ill-fated attempt of the Fascists to conquer her, she fought valiantly against the superior power of Hitler's forces. She yielded only step by step, until finally she was overpowered by sheer force of men and material.

Throughout that struggle, loyal Greeks and Greco-Americans did all they could to assist from this side of the water. Now they are aiding in another way, through providing funds with which to buy our own men the things they need to whip the enemy.

Even before the present drive, Greeks here had contributed generously to purchasing war bonds. It has been estimated they have bought about a quarter of a million dollars worth of them. There are many boys of Greek descent in our armed forces. They fight with the gallantry of their forbears for the preservation of the American democracy they revere. On the front lines they will be inspired when they learn of what their own particular people at home are doing.

May the drive continue to progress, as well as it has been, and may it go over the top liberally on the birthday of the Father of Our Country.

CHURCHILL LOOKS AHEAD

Prime Minister Churchill has been as frank in discussing bad news as in reporting good. So his report to the House of Commons about recent major events and the forecast he made for the coming months should give the United Nations encouragement and renewed determination to carry on to victory.

He announced plans for an offensive campaign in the next nine month with the purpose of engaging the Axis "on the largest possible scale and at the earliest possible moment." It is true that the time is the only fairly definite part of this, but the implications carried by the remainder should be regarded as an ill omen for the enemy.

Allied power is being mustered on a number of far-flung fronts. This power is experiencing a steady and marked rise, while that of the Axis, if not already at or by its peak, as many are convinced, must be very close to that. The British have swept the Nazis and Fascist half way across North Africa. The Russians have smashed the Germans and their satellites long distances on an extended front.

In the Far East, the Japanese have lost Guadalcanal and a large section of New Guinea. Mr. Churchill further darkens the days of the Axis. "We have to make the enemy burn and bleed in every way that is physically and reasonably possible," he declared. The prime minister is not given to idle boasting or blustering threats. He means what he says, and what he says we may be sure the Allies will do their best to make good on.

Another highlight of the talk to Commons dealt with the U-boat. "We are," he said, "more than holding our own." Then he proceeded to give comparisons to uphold this. He took to task those who are "harping" unduly upon the submarine warfare. There is, he emphasized, no need to exaggerate the danger of the U-boats or to worry the merchant seamen.

His words on this subject are most timely. In recent months, much has been said on this side of the water about the menace of the undersea campaign of the Nazis The prime minister's more optimistic view should lighten the anxiety of many friends and relatives of men and women who are sailing the seas.

Great events are brewing and greater ones are to be prepared. This was clearly indicated when Churchill announced that he would meet again with President Roosevelt within the next nine months.

MUCH IN A NAME

The decision, made and then reversed of a native New Yorker, one Joseph Mittel, to name his 18-day-old baby Adolph Hitler seems to have been proved beyond doubt at least so that after all there is something in a name, when that name in Adolph Hitler.

The father of seven children insisted his selection of Adolph Hitler for his new-born son started but as a joke and had nothing to do with politics. He only had to file the name for registry to learn how quickly a joke can end. Newspaper accounts of his calling an American child Adolph Hitler brought such a storm of protest from the public that he has yielded to demands for a change.

He and the mother, who never did like the Adolph Hitler idea in the first place, then decided to give the baby the name that got the majority of votes from the public. "I certainly don't want to hurt the little guy's future," Mr. Mittel explained.

Naming babies after men and women in the public eye is a very old custom. Still, it is unusual for anyone to name his child after a hated enemy even, when, as Mr. Mittel emphasized, "Adolph Hitler doesn't mean a thing to me." Later it was reported the name was changed to Theodore Roosevelt Mittel. That ought to mean something to anyone, even Hitler.

Each generation can be generally set off from the others by checking over lists of names and noting the prominence of the ones that belong to figures of world or national renown when the generation began. For example, we have plenty of Theodores and Roosevelts in the generation that blossomed just after the turn of the century.

Then along came the Woodrows and Wilsons of the World War era. Today, baptismal certificates carry a generous number of Franklins, Delanos, Douglases and MacArthurs and Winstons, to select just a few. Great figures come and great figures go, but their names continue for years.

Names are often a problem for parents. Those who hold to the tradition of honoring forbears often run the risk of raising the wrath of some relative not so honored. Other parents have been plagued by the fear that similarity in names might lead to the use of nicknames by outsiders as a means of identification. Many ways of trying to avoid that have been adopted.

No matter how much parental thought is put into the question, though, no matter how clever a solution is reached, one small boy, with almost no effort at all, is almost certain with one flip of his tongue to scatter to the winds the letters of the best-chosen name. As its successor, he can and will coin a designation that not only will last but probably will be fitting as well.

United States Senator Walter F. George, chairman of the finance committee, says: "We confiscate only once, but we can tax perpetually, provided we preserve our enterprise."

Close students of the Constitution of the United States declare that it guarantees 400 freedoms.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

From Mercury of Feb. 9 1918

Temperatures from 8 to 16 degrees below zero were recorded as Newport suffered a second cold snap, aggravated by high winds and an acute coal shortage. Narragansett Bay was frozen over, forcing the Jamestown ferry to land at Fort Adams. Fall River line steamers omitted regular schedules while barges were stopped by ice.

Firemen answered a still alarm for a small blaze at the home of General William Ennis at Kay and Ayrault streets where frozen water pipes were being thawed. Later box 29 sounded and they were called back to the house to battle a partition fire which demolished the third floor area and roof.

Edmund J. Burke, manager of the Western Union office, was transferred to Springfield, Mass.

The Board of Aldermen requested the city council to purchase a chassis for the city ambulance and suggested its operation from fire headquarters for a year. Consideration of an appropriation for the Washington street improvement was continued.

Rear Admiral Thomas J. Cowie was ordered to the Washington bureau of supplies and accounts and his place was filled by Pay Inspector Robert H. Woods.

Box 123 registered for a fire which gutted the naval storehouse on Long Wharf. Food, clothing and other supplies for the naval reserve, valued at $50,000 were destroyed.

Gas mains in many sections of the city broke as the frost penetrated more than three and one half feet below the surface of pavements.

Sunday evening, the Kincadians, an orchestra from the Naval Training Station will play for a concert. The Sheffield Parent-Teachers Association, with Mrs. Joseph Nunes as chairman of the committee, will serve refreshments.

COMMUNITY CHEST EXECUTIVE BODY MEETS

Considers Participation in State-Wide Drive; Decision Awaits Further Information

The Newport Community Chest executive board met Friday night at the local Y. M. C. A. to consider the proposal of the Providence Chest that the municipalities of the state, including this city, join in a state-wide Community Chest drive, to replace the annual local drives. After much discusion it was agreed that no decision could be reached until more information could be obtained regarding terms on which Newport would be expected to enter such a drive.

Another meeting of the committee will be held as soon as such information is available. The results of these discussions will be presented to the board of directors of the Chest at the March meeting.

Washington Day Book

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—How the President was guarded on his long junket to the Casablanca conference and back can never be told in this war but it's no secret here that the Secret Service gives much credit to the "magnificent cooperation" of the folks at home.

Numerically, only a comparative handful of persons in the United States knew where President Roosevelt had gone. Thousands knew that he was gone and 75 per cent of those guessed he was out of the country, yet for once eve gossipy Washington kept its big mouth shut. Not one shred of evidence has yet come to the attention of officials here that there was a leak in the newspapers, on the radio, or even in private circles.

For that the Secret Service has high praise, but the rest of the country can well take its hat off to the Secret Service. Old timers in the service know and have said that guarding President Wilson on his trip to the World War I peace conference (in spite of the greater time involved and the long sea voyage) was a pink tea party compared to being responsible for the safety of the President on this trip.

To Secret Service veterans the run by train to Miami and back was "routine," even in wartime. But from there on, when the President, his military and naval chiefs of staff and the guards took to two giant airliners, it was a different story.

ONCE in Casablanca, the task was simpler in spite of its proximity to the fighting zone and the presence of hordes of natives. Once bedded down in the new historic villa, the Secret Service had Scotland Yard and the soldiers of Maj. Gen. George S. Patton Jr. to help keep the party in "protective custody."

There were only two means of entrance or exit at the villa and you can bet nobody went either way without running the gauntlet of guards.

However, keeping Mr. A (as he was referred to throughout the trip) in "protective custody" is like trying to carry a spoonful of mercury through a fit of palsy.

Before the week was out he had determined to review the troops at Rabat and Lyautey—a long automobile trip. When he expressed a hankering to visit Marrakech, in the shadow of the great Atlas mountains, after Prime Minister Churchill had described it as one of his favorite vacation spots, the S.S. men really got the jitters.

AT THAT time, there were no soldiers at Marrakech and to run them in would have brought the natives flocking from miles around. One of the President's chief advisers was asked to intercede.

"Not me," he said. "And if you want a little advice, you'd better get busy on preliminaries or whatever it is you do in Liberia, because dollars to what's left of a doughboy's doughnut, that's where we're going next."

And go they did—after an overnight motor trip into the mountains of Marrakech.

The goodwill of the peoples where the President visited and the fact that the United States proved that it can keep a wartime secret are no doubt responsible in part that not one suspicious circumstance marred the trip. But the big bow must go to the men who guard the President. The only word to describe the way they handled their biggest assignment is "perfectly."

RESIDENT EXPLAINS BLOCK LEADER PLAN

System Primarily to Enlist Everybody In Some Phase of War Effort

To the Editor of the News:

I feel everybody in Newport wants to know more about the block leader system that is getting underway. If it is to be a success, a through understanding should exist of its purpose, not amongst the leaders who go forth to the homes in their block, but the housewives who are interviewed.

It is primarily to enlist everybody in the war effort on the home front. Since saving tin cans and rubber and fuel helps to defeat the enemy, we must all get in the fight. The block leaders are going out in full force to enlist our services, by telling us, as they get the information from headquarters, just how we are to help.

It is a large undertaking, but it will answer the question we are all asking, "how can I serve?" The knowledge that sifts down to us will come from experts so that every block will know the best methods of tackling each job as it confronts us, from salvaging tin cans to when and how to plant our Victory Gardens, and will have the point rationing explained.

It has a tremendous scope, this block leader plan So whether we are the leaders or the housewife, let us try and understand and cooperate so that our home front is a strong ally to our services over seas.

TAX WARNING GIVEN

Edward L. Leahy, state finance director, has issued a warning to unincorporated businesses throughout the state that their tax returns are due and payable next Monday. He said many business houses are still to be heard from and unless the returns are filed by Monday they will be subject to a penalty of a 10 per cent addition to their tax. He also warned that a 25 per cent penalty would be imposed if the state had to send an agent out for the payment and said that any overdue taxes are subject to an interest rate at six per cent.

The tax on unincorporated businesses is a new one. The law specifies that all retail mercantile, wholesale mercantile, motor transportation, amusement or manufacturing businesses having gross receipts in any income year in excess of $30,000 must pay the tax.

CRACK SHOT TEACHES WOMEN

Schweitzer, World's Best, Says Girls Can Learn Pistol Shooting

[By Margaret Kernodle]

BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 12 (AP)—The first three shots went wild.

The world's best shot said: "Maggie, a pistol in your hands is a dangerous thing. I'd better teach you how to shoot." And he did.

So, come closer, Mr. Hitler, and I'll tell you my military secret:

Yesterday, like a lot of other American women, I'd never had a pistol in my hands before. Yesterday, had I hit you, it would have been an accident.

Today this man who has outshot representatives of the "master race" and all other challengers, says:

"Maggie can shoot a man."

He means it. I can.

Besides, he says the average American woman can learn to shoot in two hours with a little preliminary instruction and 50 shots—learn to shoot to kill.

He's taught quite a few women to shoot. He's even taught some wives of military men and admits the women turned out to be better shots than their husbands. He hasn't been doing any official army instruction recently. Right now he's in one of those confidential jobs at Third Service Command headquarters which you don't mention much. Later he will be closer to the ranges.

He'd like to see every American learn to shoot effectively right this minute. He'd love to teach WAACS to shoot (but don't tell his wife). A big reason he'd like to see WAACS learn to shoot is to relieve more men for combat duty and let the girls mind the home fring—but mind it well!

Big Shot

This man is Captain William P. Sshweitzer, who in 1939 shot 200 bull's eyes for a world's record. One man, Colonel James P. Wharton, once outshot him (but not in tournament). The only man who ever outshot Colonel Wharton was General Ike Eisenhower. It happened at Fort Meade, Md., back in the twenties.

Colonel Wharton and Captain Sshweitzer, who in 1939 shot 200 pistol paces like this:

First they shot some bull's eyes—you know, just to give a girl confidence.

Then Captain Schweitzer steadied my confidence by telling me how well women can shoot—how quickly they learn. Later he asked me if I felt any shock from the realization of real shooting and he was pretty pleased when I said no. I didn't even think of being scared of the live pistol. That fright, he pointed out can be a serious obstacle in shooting lessons.

Next, he showed me the pistol minus bullets. Then he pointed out some charts which took the pistol apart and explained it in detail. And he had me look at the pistol again and see the chart come to life in the real thing.

I practiced holding the pistol. If course I crooked my arm incorrectly at first. He straightened that out. And my stance wasn't sideways enough.

In a few minutes he taught the trigger- touch. "Remember, squeeze it . . . don't jump it," he said. Over and over he repeated "Squeeze the trigger."

But I jumped it the first shot. It went high," I said.

The army fellows forgot I missed the target they were so excited that I could call the shot.

The second shot was bad because my arm shook.

"Now if I could hold my arm steadier, I could do better," I thought aloud.

"Sure, that's what they say in tournaments' too," the experts told me.

Dead Shot Maggie

Just after the third shot, Colonel Wharton noticed I wasn't using the back sight— just the front. He put his arm around my shoulders steadied the pistol until I could see by both sights. Then I began to hit the target.

I didn't know it until I asked, but the pistol I took my first lessons with wast a 10-inch targe pistol, and "H&R," I still don't understand things like telescopic sights and metallic sights.

Somehow the word got around among the military that a woman had learned to shoot in a half an hour or so—actually well enough to hit the target. And I became a strange species to sneak a glance at for a while. Because these fellows don't know what Captain Schweitzer does—that American women take to shooting. It's even a surprise to most of us.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS and SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Miss Sugar Geise, a night club queen, gave me the lowdown today on Sugar in her element.

"I just love it," she said. "I love night club work and I think it's more fun than pictures."

For two years and nine months, two shows a night, seven nights a week, the indefatigable Sugar has been lending her unrationed enthusiasm and art to the floor show at N. T. G.'s. She leads the cuties on the floor, sings and dances, and serves as a sort of aide-de-gag to the m.c., Mr. Nils T. Granlund himself.

"And I haven't missed a show in all that time—I love it!" she said.

SUGAR, a pretty blonde with blue-grey eyes and a customer smile, wasn't in the floor show when I met her today. She was on a movie set, playing the ex-girl friend of John Wayne in "Free For All." Sugar was wearing a skirt and a plaid blouse, with a ribbon in her hair, this being a wild west beer parlor and she playing a dance hall girl.

Sugar used to dance in pictures—she's been in show business since she was three and Sugar since she was seven—but she didn't get anywhere much until she discovered night club work. Then pictures discovered her, and she works in both. "I don't need much sleep, anyway," she said.

At the night club Sugar, as the boss's aide, watches out for and over the other girls. If one of them is forgetting to keep the old smile on, it's Sugar who maneuvers by her during the number and whispers the reminder. Even a casual night clubber knows that the girls have to smile while they work, even when the smile looks frozen. Sugar says that's because girls generally look prettier when they smile, and besides they ought to look as if they're having a wonderful time, which they are. Sugar doesn't tumble to any suggestion that at least one girl ought to keep a dead pan expression, just for contrast. She even hinted darkly that with some girls it's a real achievement to project anything else.

SUGAR knows about wolves in the house from the mash notes they send, frequently with gifts, but the real hazards in her work are the drunks—the bright boys who decide they'll show off with the show.

"You never know what they're going to do," said Sugar. "Like when one of the girls was sitting on the rail during a number, and a fellow reached up from a table to untie her bra. You've got to get there fast. Another time a drunk tackled a girl's ankle and said she couldn't get away, no matter what. I ran over and said to let go, fast, or I'd have him put out. He let go, fast. And once I was against the rail for a jockey number and a customer reached up and unzipped my panties from behind—and that would be the night I forgot my underpantiesl

COLLEGE SPORTS FACE SLIM YEAR

Rickey Sees Possible Suspension of Baseball as Leveling-Off Era of Teams

[By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (AP)—Have any use for a football stadium? ... Our guess, after reading about the program for training army specialized personnel, is that the colleges won't have the teams to fill them next fall .... The main hope of carrying on football on anything like a normal basis was to have the soldier students mingle with the rest of Varsity teams and apparently that's out .... All branches of the services haven't been heard from and possibly the navy will be more liberal, but it still looks like the only athletes available will be either too young or too feeble to get into uniforms.

One-minute sports page—Maybe it isn't superstition, but Stan Spence, who says his Washington contract is O. K., won't sign it until he reports for training because that's what he did last year when he had his best season .... Pop Harrison, Iowa basketball coach, claims the Illinois "Whiz Kids" are so good a coach couldn't have done better by wading through the high schools to hand-pick a squad .... When a flood last spring washed the 170-foot horse barn at the Homestead, Pa., fair grounds 1,500 feet down stream, it was cut into five sections and trucked back to its place by the race track .... After sending a story on the first developments of the Phils' sale Tuesday, a Philadelphia reporter phoned his office to ask whether he should return or stick around a while. "Stay there until you find out who's bought them", he was told .... Latest report is that he claims New York is fine for a visit but he hates to live here.

Today's greatest star: Sandy Stiles, St. Petersburg (Fla.) Times: "With the advent of shoe rationing, we can just picture a mashie-wielder serenading his golf shoes with 'I don't want to walk without you.'

Super-salesman: Branch Rickey, who couldn't make a better sales talk for the Phillies if he was getting a commission than he did to the New York scribes the other day, argues the club will be an even better buy if the war forces baseball to suspend for a few years...."That would bring a leveling-off of teams," he maintains. "The Yankees wouldn't be better than anyone else when they started up again."

Service Department: Jack Banta, the Philadelphia Eagles' punting star, is learning to fly lighter than air craft for the navy at Lakehurst, N. J.....Wonder how far he can boot a blimp....Latest publicity communique from Notre Dame includes a farewell note from Lieutenant (jg) Joe Petritz, who is shutting up shop after 13 years of tub thumping to serve in the navy....When Lieutenant Joe McFadden, former Georgetown quarterback, got his commission, the marines picked up a promising officer. Against Boston College in 1940 Joe went for a touchdown on a double reverse play he worked out in the huddle and which led Joe Gardner, athletic director, to comment: "That kind of a play usually takes weeks to perfect, but McFadden worked it out in ten seconds, perfectly."

If the shoe fits: Since Northwestern U. has enough football footgear to last for a couple of years, shoe-rationing is about the least of Coach Lynn Waldorf's worries...."our problem," he says, "is out to get enough fellows to fill the shoes."

DE LA SALLE SWAMPS MOUNT PLEASANT HIGH

Crusaders Lead Throughout Entire Game

Kenney, Hole Pace Newporters; Jay Vees Defeat Narragansetts 38-28

Paced by Phil Kenney and Dick Hole, De La Salle Academy romped to a 65-37 win over Mount Pleasant High School of Providence in a Class A contest at De La Salle Friday night.

Zarharcyh of the Providence quintet with 16 upoints took the scoring honors. All quarterly leads 10-7, 26-12 and 44-23 fell to the Academy.

Maxwell of the Upstaters started the scoring with a set shot from mid floor, but almost immediately "Duke" Boiani dribbled in from the side to even it up. Again a lay-up by Zarharcyh was matched by Kenney who went one better by putting up a side shot to give the Crusaders the advantage. A foul by Zarharcyh and side shot by Paulson were matched by McGowan and Corrigan. With the close of the quarter, De La Salle took the lead 10-7.

In the second period, Coach Larkin sent in a new local quintet, Dick Lee and John Hayes sparked the second string which ran up 16 points while allowing Providence to score but twice from the floor and once from the foul stripe.

The Academy men came back in the second half and began a new onslaught. Kenney scored six successive points within a few seconds. Corrigan followed up with a layup, and again Kenney pivoted an additional two points before Zararcyk countered from the side. From then on the period went zig-zagged with the Crusaders on the heavy end of a 44-23 lead.

Again in the final frame the second string took the count for the locals and more than outplayed the Providence five. Sparked by Hayes and Roggero they took a 21-14 count setting the final score at 65-37.

ROGERS HIGH LOSES TO PAWTUCKET EAST

Upstaters Overtake Newporters After Fast First Period

Newporters Build Up Early Lead, But Winners Dominate Rest of Game

The Rogers High School basketball team went to Pawtucket Friday and was defeated by Pawtucket East High, 44-27. Rogers started off with a rush and gave the crowded gymnasium a thrill, outplaying the upstaters for the entire first period to take the lead. In the final three periods however it was all Pawtucket and the upstaters cohsted through to win.

Matching the fast break of Pawtucket in the opening period, Rogers flashed a brand of ball that was better than any they have shown this year. They passed well, broke fast under the hoop, and by quick defensive covering, halted the fast break of the upstaters. As a result, Rogers went ahead 11 to 5 for the opening period.

Things changed quickly in the second period, however as the rangy Pawtucket group hit its stride. They bottled up the Rogers attack and speeded up their offensive so that they dominated the play. Maziarz and Znuj matched their height against Morrow of Rogers in the battle for the rebounds and the upstate pair were just a little too strong for the Newporters. Pawtucket outscored Rogers for this period 16-6 to lead 21-17 at the half.

Both teams started off the third period at breakneck speed. The Rogers boys made a determined bid to get back in the ball game, but could not match the height of the Easterners. Pawtucket slowly took the upper hand and outscored Rogers 15-8 to build up a 36-25 lead for the end of the third period.

In the final period the Rogers players tired, and although Coach Delaney sent in his reserves, they were not able to hold Pawtucket in check. The Newporters were only able to score two points in the final period.

Znuj and Maziarz were the big scorers for the winners with 12 points each. Andie Morrow and Charlie Oxx each scored six.

WILLIE PEP MAKES IT NO. 60

DODDS, MITCHELL TO CLASH AGAIN

Both to Watch Dixon; Greg Rice Seeks 58th Straight Triumph

[By Bill King]

BOSTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—Fast-starting Gil Dodds and fast-finishing Earl Mitchell will match strides for the third time tonight in the Boston A. A. track meet's famed Hunter Mile event and while so doing both will keep a close eye on Frank Dixon, New York University's sensational Negro Freshman, who plans to be very close upon their heels throughout the race.

A week ago Dodds was subjected to a second setback by the speedy Mitchell, who was runner-up to Les MacMitchell in last year's Hunter event. Dodds, a Boston Divinity student, set such a furious early pace that he burned himself out before Mitchell cut oose with his finishing drive just as was the case last March when they staged their first mile duel in a Cleveland meet.

The meet, the 54th in the Unicorn Association's history, has retained all of its usual fixtures, which have attracted the outstanding tracksters in the country. Greg Rice, the New York A. C. two-mile star who has won his last 57 starts, will attempt to gain his fourth straight Billings two-mile victory against a brilliant field that includes Forest Efaw, now of the U. S. navy, George DeGeorge of the New York A. C., Leo Casey of Manhattan, and Dave Williams of Georgetown.

The season's middle-distance discovery, Hugh Short of Georgetown, is favored to end Seaman Charlie Beetham's spring of Hollis "600" victories while also competing against Jimmy Herbert, the New York vetran who has made six previous starts in this event, and Russ Owen, the Big Ten quarter-mile champion from Ohio State.

The Lapham "1000" looms as a wide-open affair with Les Eisenheart of Port Clinton, O., Gene Venzke of the New York A. C., Jim Rafferty of New York, Fred Stokinger of Manhattan, and Norman Gordon of Penn State, down to start.

Private Barney Ewell, now of Camp Lee, Va., will attempt to retain his Briggs 50-yard dash laurels from such capable spinster as Harold Stickel, former Pittsburgh star, Charlie Shaw of Cornell, and Herbert Thompson, the Jersey City flash. Another 1942 B. A. A. victor, Fred Dugger, a national champion when he was competing for Tufts three years ago, will be in competition for the first time since last winter when he starts in the 45-yard high hurdles against such dangerous competitors as Bob Wright of Ohio State, Don Olson, a former Big Ten champion at Illinois and Private John Saunders, also from Camp Lee.

JOE CRONIN HOME FROM HAWAII

Joe Cronin, manager of the Boston Red Sox, is greeted by his wife and small son, Tommy, as he arrived at his home town of Newtonville, Mass., after a Red Cross mission in Hawaii.

An idea of the play can be had by a look at the box score which shows that no one else on either side had more than six points. The score, 47-39.

Kluth had six foul counts in his total to one for Smith. Both played good floor games.

ROGERS FRESHMEN TRIM DOE-JOES

School Team Finishes Strong to Take 43-33 Decision on Own Court

The Rogers Freshman basketball team scored its second victory of the season Friday afternoon in the Rogers gymnasium as it defeated the Doe Joes 43-33.

The schoolboys played the better ball in the opening period and they managed to get an 8-4 lead for this quarter. The second period was a free scoring period with the visiting players having just a little the better of the going. The Doe Joe's outscored the schoolboys 11-9 for this period.

The Doe Joes came through with their best playing in the third period and they outscored the freshmen 12-5.

It was a far different story in the final period as the Freshmen really began to click, outscoring the opposition 21-6 to win with ease.

INFANTRY LOSES, WINS IN "Y" LEAGUE GAMES

Bows to Engineers in Opener, Wallops Tanks 36-29 in Second Tilt

The Infantry dropped out of the undefeated ranks in the Y. M. C. A. high school league at the Mary Street "Y" Friday afternoon when it lost the Engineers 23-45. The day was brightened somewhat however when they took the Tanks into camp 36-29.

Sullivan of the Engineers had 12 points and Sacks of the Infantry accounted for 10.

It was a different looking Infantry outfit that won over the Tanks. Sacks got into his stride with 19 points in this affair, and his team mate, Gleason, scored 13 points.

Scanning New BOOKS

"BEHIND THE JAPANESE MASK," by Jesse F. Steiner.

There have been so many books about the Japanese and they have been so confusing that Jesse F. Steiner's "Behind the Japanese Mask" seems particularly welcome. It is not the brightest book so far, nor is it necessarily the most reliable. After all, Professor Steiner's most intimate contact with Japan ended 30 years ago, although he has revisited the country since.

Professor Steiner does not think the Japs are "unpredictable"—indeed, he points out that for many years they have made every effort to publicize their aggressive plans. We are at fault. We said, "Oh—those funny little brown men."

He explodes the descent-from-the-gods myth. He examines with considerable care the race hatred matter, showing, incidentally, that the Chinese have "locked down on" the Japs quite as much as anybody else. The military caste is, he shows, nothing new, but the logical outgrowth of Japan's past in which the present military establisment becomes a modern structure firmly based on an already well-formed national habit.

The business of Japan's being an imitator rather than a creator is true, Professor Steiner believes, but with an important addition.

The national genius has gone into adapting western inventions with amazing cleverness to the Japanese need. The low rank of Japan's women is very well explained, and the fact that Japanese men are responsible to nobody for their morals, least of all to their families, has a connection with her conduct, now, in the conquered lands.

Intimately connected are Japan's heartless exploitation of her own poor and her exploitation of such lands as Korea and occupied China.

Professor Steiner's book has its place, here and now.

With a fourth place Service League position tucked away for the present as a result of the 56-43 win over the Naval Hospital at the service "Y" Friday night, the Coast Guard would appear to rate a lot of attention from now on if their play in the past few games can be taken as an indication of things to come. Only the night before they gave Dugan's Oilers, an undefeated team, and headliners of the Industrial League, one of their toughest games.

The Coast Guard had a lead of 31-14 in the first half as a result of excellent passing, while their opponents were able to score only five field goals.

Shacocsis, Bertolami and Tisdel shone for the Guardsmen with 16, 13 and 12 points each. However the scoring honors for the game went to Snyder of the Hospital with 18 points. This raises his total for the season to 218 and gives him an average of 11 points a contest.

ANDY HARDY PICTURE AT STRAND THEATRE

Mickey Rooney Plays Lead in College Story; "Sunday Punch" On Bill

Mickey Rooney gets into legal troubles, finds himself "engaged" to two girls, and finally starts for college after a series of predicaments in "Andy Hardy's Double Life" now playing at the Strand Theatre.

The picture opens on the eve of Andy's departure for Wainwright College. He sells his jalloppy to a friend, who gets in an accident and Andy is held responsible as owner of the car. No sooner is he out of that trouble than he meets a flirtatious girl, who insists she construes his romantic behavior as a proposal of marriage. Also his father wants to go to the college with him and introduce him to the president, and Andy knows that will ruin him with the fellows.

Finally he learns that the girl who insists he proposed is a psychology student, doing so to watch his reactions, and his girl friend Polly Benedict is in on the plot. He has a heart-to-heart talk with his father, who sees his point about meeting the college president. His troubles over, he sets forth gaily for college.

Lewis Stone plays the judge and father. A new feminine member of the cast is Esther Williams, a swimming champion.

On the same program is "Sunday Punch", starring William Lundigan, Jean Rogers & Dan Daily, Jr., and Guy Kibbee.

Scientists have never found an adequate explanation for the strange geometric "canals" on the planet Mars.

YOUR INCOME TAX

Trades and Exchanges

Among the forms of transactions to which consideration must be given in preparing a federal income tax return are trades and exchanges of property. When a person receives goods for services, as in the case of a workman taking groceries for wages or a lawyer receiving securities for professional services, a question of income tax liability arises. It also arises when a farmer trades farm produce for services or goods, such as groceries or farm equipment, or when cattle or forms or other property is traded.

In the case of exchange of one's services or the product of one's labor (as farm produce) for goods or property, the value of the goods or property received in exchange becomes ordinary income reportable in item 1 of the return Form 1040. Where property is exchanged for property of another kind, or for services, the transaction may give rise to a capital gain or loss (if the property exchanged is a capital asset), reportable in Schedule F, of the property exchanged is not the property exchanged is not a capital asset the transaction may give rise to ordinary gain or loss reportable in Schedule G and item 8 (b) of the return form 1040. In such cases, the measure of gain or loss is the difference between the basis of the property exchanged and the fair market value of the property received in exchange.

Where, however, property is exchanged for property of a like kind, the transaction, within certain definite limitations, is considered as giving rise neither to gain nor to loss, and accordingly is nontaxable.

It sometimes happens that a taxpayer has an involuntary gain, as when property is sold under condemnation, or is destroyed or stolen, with the receipt of insurance. If the proceeds of involuntary conversion are "forthwith" in good faith invested in property which is similar or related in service or use to the property converted," no gain shall be recognized. If, however, any part of the money received is not so re-invested, the gain in excess of the amount not re-invested would be taxable.

DEFENSE BODY ADOPTS LIGHT RECOMMENDATION

State Council Directs That Changes Be Made

Recent Report Shows Hazards Here Caused By Excessive Dimout

The Rhode Island Council of Defense, at a meeting in Providence Friday afternoon, adopted the recommendations of Harry Freeman, state dimout marshal, in regard to the hazards created in Newport by an over-zealous dimming of street lights, and ordered copies of it sent to the Board of Aldermen and the Civilian Defense Council here, with directions to see that the changes are made. Copies will also be sent to the Newport Electric Corporation and the American Street Lighting Company.

Freeman recommended that the street lights be done over so as to allow more light for pedestrians and vehicular traffic. He suggested that by using fibre shields and painting the caps of all street lights, lighting could be improved and at the same time sky glow could be eliminated. The report was presented to the council through Cornelius C. Moore, Newport member of the executive committee, and came as the result of a recent survey.

Declaring that the report had been discussed with C. Irving Dwinnell, senior blackout engineer of the First Civilian Defense area of Boston, Mr. Freeman said the street lighting has created an undue hazard here. He said the survey was made on a rainy night with the ground slippery and some reflections were noticed. He said pedestrians were slipping and using great care in walking due to the low light intensity.

"Many side streets running off Thames street were lighted with gas lights and were of little value as far as the light was concerned," the report said. "All that could be seen was a slight glow at the base of the glass globe, due to the fact that the globe had been painted two inches below the igniting unit. In my opinion, this form of obscuration paint is not efficient and rendered practically no protection to the people.

"The electric lights on Thames street had been reduced in intensity and every alternating light was out. The only form of obscuration was the cap at the top of the pedestal painted black and in many instances the paint had already worn off. These lights were spaced too far apart and of too low intensity to offer much protection."

"The gas lights were measured approximately three feet up from the ground and six feet away from the post and we could get no reading whatsoever on our foot-candle meter," the report said. "We estimate that the approximate amount of light is fifteen feet directly downward." Bellevue Avenue gas lights were put in the same class as smaller gas lights on side streets.

"We measured the electric lights on Thames street and three feet up from the ground and six feet from the post, we could get approximately one to two foot power readings and this only in certain instances. No readings whatsoever were obtained between lights.

"It is the opinion of the writer that if the gas lights had not been painted at all and were properly shielded the skyglow problem would be overcome and that there would be a dispersion of light where there is now a concentration of light at the base of the lamp where it has no value.

The report recommended that Thames street electric lights have caps repainted and use shields so it would not be necessary to turn out every alternate light. Escape of light upward to 20% would then be eliminated and light concentrated downward, it said. Various diagrams were attached.

The report said John Barry Ryan, chief air raid warden, and representatives of the lighting companies were consulted, and all felt increase of lighting, provided it complied with dimout regulations, would be acceptable.

POLICE SET UP RAID SHELTER, KITCHEN

Rooms, Equipment at Headquarters To Be Available For Use in Case of Emergency

A combined air raid shelter and kitchen, equipped with an electric stove and refrigerator, has been developed by the Newport police department in the old target room at headquarters. Officers and patrolmen contributed funds and personal effort to the set-up of the shelter and its stock of provisions for use in an emergency.

Captain Samuel H. Dugan supervised the alterations. The walls are painted cream color with black baseboards and a gray floor. A cabinet made by John D. Chase, an auxiliary policeman, is for the provisions. Three percolators have also been provided. Mrs. Herman LeRoy Jones has contributed an electric toaster and Mrs. Anna Hope Curran and Miss Helen S. Sullivan have offered to contribute special items, all in appreciation of the work of the police in the Infantile Paralysis campaign.

The shelter serves a double purpose, for men at the station are privileged to use its equipment for "snacks" and coffee for the night shifts.

Mayor Herbert E. Macauley, who encouraged the transformation, has invited the Infantile Paralysis Commission and campaign chairmen to inspect the shelter Sunday evening.

J. RAYMOND CASEY HEADS CANVASS BODY

Board Adopts Budget at Organization Meeting

New Bill In Assembly Would Change Set-Up, Terms of Board Members

Former Alderman J. Raymond Casey, Democrat, was elected chairman of the Board of Canvassers and Registration at an organization meeting held in the office in the city hall basement Friday afternoon. Mrs. Ellen F. Watterson, Democrat, named by the present city administration to take the place of Mrs. Louise G. Green, Republican, former chairman, whose term expired, and Harold P. Arnold, clerk of the board, were the others present.

Mr. Casey was elected by unanimous vote. The board adopted the budget as drawn by Clerk Arnold for submission to the budget commission for the coming fiscal year beginning April 1. Other matters of routine business were discused. It was the first meeting for Mrs. Watterson since she was elected by the Representative Council.

At the General Asembly session Thursday, a bill was introduced to create a bi-partisan four-member Board of Canvassers, composed of two Republicans and two Democrats, elected by the council, to supplant the present board. Two members, one from each party, would serve until the first Monday in February, 1945, and the others would be in office until the first Monday in February, 1947. Elections thereafter would be in January for four-year terms instead of six as now.

The new board would elect a member as chairman, another as secretary, and a clerk biennially who would not be a board member, the council to set his salary. Members would get $250 annually instead of $500.

The act was introduced pursuant to a resolution passed by the council. In the event of its passage, it was reported that Chairman Casey and Mrs. Watterson would probably remain on the new board as the Democratic members and two Republicans would be named to fill out the board.

AT PARAMOUNT THEATRE

The feature picture at the Paramount Theatre Sunday will be "Miss V from Moscow," co-starring Lola Lane, Noel Madison and Howard Banks. The other film on the bill will be "The Strange Case of Dr. Rx." with Lionel Atwill and Patricia Knowles in the feature roles.

Monday, Humphrey Bogart in "Across the Pacific" will be the feature on a bill which will include a co-feature, and a number of short subjects.
